Here are some links that provide more information and different photos of Mary Claire Peroutka.

In 2015 she was ‘Best Lady’ at the marriage of her friend Mike Owens. The couple appear to have set up a webpage detailing the event and this includes photos of the bridal party. The mini-bio of “MaryClaire Peroutka” on the page you’ll go to by following this first link states she works for the State Department and the accompanying photo shows her in Red Square (this is about half-way down the page and it’s the middle of the trio of pics).

As mentioned in the bio from the wedding page, Ms Peroutka is an experienced extreme athlete.

Here are pages that show her in triathlon competition:

New Chief of CIA Clandestine Service Is Spying Veteran

WASHINGTON — Jan 29, 2015, 4:31 PM ET

By KEN DILANIAN AP Intelligence Writer

[Excerpt]

The CIA officer credited with saving Hamid Karzai's life during the U.S. invasion of Afghanistan in 2001 has been named director of the National Clandestine Service, the agency's spying arm.

The officer, a former Marine who is under cover and whose first name is Greg, was recently the head of the Special Activities Division, the CIA's elite paramilitary force. He has twice been station chief in Afghanistan, where in December 2001 he jumped to shield Karzai when the U.S. military accidentally bombed the position of the man who would become Afghanistan's president.

A sends:

Yes, it's Vogel. Another head of the Special Activities Division: Rodney Guy Smith. His name is under a few redactions in the torture report

13 February 2012

CIA Kabul Chief of Station Named

A sends:

I recently sorted out the identity of the CIA Kabul chief of station (all through open sources, of course). Apparently no one has reported it on the web yet.

The triggering information was a WSJ article :

<http://online.wsj.com/article/SB10001424052748704741904575409874267832044.html#>

which gave a significant bit of information:

"In the chaos of battle in December 2001, a U.S. military officer accidentally ordered a bomb drop on a meeting between Mr. Karzai and other tribal leaders. The chief leapt on Mr. Karzai to shield him". It also says that "In 2004 he began his first stint as station chief in Kabul".

A second source to make the link, DCI George Tenet's memoirs At the Center of the Storm. Tenet call that guy "Greg V."

I came across this DOS document :

<http://oig.state.gov/documents/organization/128838.pdf>

On p. 71 you find a list of Kabul embassy officials, including an officer for Regional Affairs named Gregory Vogel who arrived there in September 2004.

What are the chances to have two "Greg V."s arriving at an upper post in this embassy in 2004? Especially when you know until June 2004 the CIA chief of station was first-named Peter:

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/articles/A52673-2004Oct21.html>

By the way, that guy has been given a lot of surnames:

- in Gary Berntsen Jawbreaker (2005), he is called "Craig."

- in Sean Naylor Not a Good Day to Die (2004), it is said that he used the noms de guerre "Spider" and "the Wolf", and was the senior CIA officer in Gardez during operation Anaconda.

- in Eric Blehm, The Only Thing Worth Dying For (2011), he is called "Casper."

and as said above, George Tenet said almost all when he called him "Greg V." (as with "Rich B.")

THE SSCI'S LEFT HOOK

Posted on December 15, 2014 by Cryptocomb

Contained within the SSCI's report on CIA's use of torture is a footnote.

⁷⁶² Referring to ██████████ and a second CTC officer named in the OIG's Report of Investigation, the notification to Congress stated that the director "does not believe that... the performance of the two named CTC officers fall below a reasonable level of professionalism, skill, and diligence as defined in CIA's Standard for Employee Accountability." The notification also stated that there was a "high threat environment" at the time of the rendition, which "was essentially identical to the one in which CTC employees, including the two in question here, previously had been sharply criticized for not connecting the dots prior to 9/11." The notification acknowledged "an insufficient legal justification, which failed to meet the standard prescribed in the [MON]," and referred to the acting general counsel the task of assessing legal advice and personal accountability. Based on recommendations from the inspector general, the CIA "developed a template for rendition proposals that makes clear what information is

CIA OFFICERS CZARNETSKY AND ZALUCKY ESTABLISH AND RUN BLUE TORTURE SITE

Posted on December 15, 2014 by Cryptocomb

CIA Officer Ronald J Czarnetsky, and CIA Officer Paul Zalucky are the two key officers who established the torture site in Poland.

(TS// [REDACTED] /NF) In a separate country, Country [REDACTED], the CIA obtained the approval of the [REDACTED] and the political leadership to establish a detention facility before informing the U.S. ambassador.⁵⁷³ As the CIA chief of Station stated in his request to CIA Headquarters to brief the ambassador, Country [REDACTED]'s [REDACTED] and the [REDACTED] probably would ask the ambassador about the CIA detention facility.⁵⁷⁴ After [REDACTED] [REDACTED] delayed briefing the [REDACTED] for [REDACTED] months, to the consternation of the CIA Station, which wanted political approval prior to the arrival of CIA detainees.⁵⁷⁵ The [REDACTED] Country [REDACTED] official outside of the [REDACTED] aware of the facility, was described as "shocked," but nonetheless approved.⁵⁷⁶

(TS// [REDACTED] /NF) By mid-2003 the CIA had concluded that its completed, but still unused "holding cell" in Country [REDACTED] was insufficient, given the growing number of CIA detainees in the program and the CIA's interest in interrogating multiple detainees at the same detention site. The CIA thus sought to build a new, expanded detention facility in the country.⁵⁷⁷ The CIA

CIA OFFICER ALBERT EL GAMIL IS SITE BLUE TORTURER

Posted on December 14, 2014 by Cryptocomb

CIA Officer Albert El Gamil is identified as "CIA Officer 2" at "Detention Site Blue"

(TS// [REDACTED]//NF) In late December 2002, following a meeting at CIA Headquarters to discuss resuming the use of the CIA's enhanced interrogation techniques against al-Nashiri, [REDACTED], the chief of RDG³⁴⁶—the entity that managed the CIA's Detention and Interrogation Program—objected to sending [REDACTED] [CIA OFFICER 2] to the detention site because he “had not been through the interrogation training” and because [REDACTED] “had heard from some colleagues that [REDACTED] [CIA OFFICER 2] was too confident, had a temper, and had some security issues.” [REDACTED] later learned from other CIA officials that “[CTC chief of operations [REDACTED]] wanted [REDACTED] [CIA OFFICER 2] at [DETENTION SITE BLUE] over the holidays.” [REDACTED] told the Office of Inspector General that “his assessment is that the Agency management felt that the [RDG] interrogators were being too lenient with al-Nashiri and that [REDACTED] [CIA OFFICER 2] was sent to [DETENTION SITE BLUE] to ‘fix’ the situation.”³⁴⁷

(TS// [REDACTED]//NF) [REDACTED] [CIA OFFICER 2] arrived at DETENTION SITE BLUE on December [REDACTED], 2002, and the CIA resumed the use of its enhanced interrogation techniques on al-Nashiri shortly thereafter, despite the fact that [REDACTED] [CIA OFFICER 2] had not been trained, certified, or approved to use the CIA's enhanced interrogation techniques. [REDACTED] [CIA OFFICER 2] wrote in a cable to CIA Headquarters that “[al]-Nashiri responds well to harsh treatment” and suggested that the interrogators continue to administer “various degrees of mild punishment,” but still allow for “a small degree of ‘hope,’ by introducing some ‘minute rewards.’”³⁴⁸

(TS// [REDACTED]//NF) It was later learned that during these interrogation sessions, [REDACTED] [CIA OFFICER 2], with the permission and participation of the DETENTION SITE BLUE chief of Base, who also had not been trained and qualified as an interrogator, used a series of unauthorized interrogation techniques against al-Nashiri. For example, [REDACTED] [CIA OFFICER 2] placed al-Nashiri in a “standing stress position” with “his hands affixed over his head” for approximately two and a half days.³⁴⁹ Later, during the course of al-Nashiri's debriefings, while he was blindfolded, [REDACTED] [CIA OFFICER 2] placed a pistol near al-Nashiri's head and operated a cordless drill near al-Nashiri's body.³⁵⁰ Al-Nashiri did not provide any additional threat information during, or after, these interrogations.³⁵¹

²⁷⁷ DIRECTOR [REDACTED] [REDACTED]. In late 2005, the CIA convened an Accountability Board to review the actions of CIA personnel in Gul Rahman's death. The board recommended that the executive director “impose a 10 day suspension without pay” on [REDACTED] [CIA OFFICER 1], and noted that this action would “strike the appropriate balance between: 1) the fact that [REDACTED] [CIA OFFICER 1] was the only individual who made decisions that led directly, albeit unintentionally, to Rahman's death, and 2) the significant weight the Board attached to the mitigating factors at play in this incident.” (See Memorandum for Executive Director from [REDACTED] [REDACTED], Deputy Director for Science and Technology, re: Report and Recommendations of the Special Accountability Board Regarding the Death of Afghan Detainee Gul Rahman.) On February 10, 2006, however, the CIA Executive Director K.B. Foggo notified [REDACTED] [CIA OFFICER 1] that he intended to take no disciplinary action against him. In his memo describing that decision, the executive director stated: “While not condoning your actions, it is imperative, in my view, that they... be judged within the operational context that existed at the time of Rahman's detention. Cable traffic reviewed by the board shows conclusively that Headquarters generally was aware of, and posed no objections to, the confinement conditions and interrogation techniques being imposed on Rahman as late as [REDACTED] November. On that date, Headquarters notified [the CIA Station in COUNTRY [REDACTED]]... that it was ‘motivated to extract any and all operational information’ from Rahman, that it rated achieving Rahman's cooperation to be of ‘great importance’ and that it acknowledged that Rahman ‘may need to be subjected to enhanced interrogation measures to induce him to comply.’” (See February 10, 2006, Memorandum for [REDACTED] [CIA OFFICER

1. Sean Michael Wiswesser was once based in Prague, Czech Republic as well. He’s from Reading and a ‘Morehead Scholar’. Graduated in 1992 from The Hill School. He learnt Russian under the tutelage of his teacher Professor Frederick “Rick” Allan Borger. Wiswesser writes:

“In my work as a U.S. diplomat, specializing in the former Soviet Union, I have traveled from The Baltics to Central Asia and from Moscow through most of European Russia. I get asked two questions very commonly: the first is ‘What part of the Soviet Union was I born in?’ I answer that I am an American, born in the USA. When greeted with disbelief, I explain that I was just very fortunate to have a really good Russian teacher at a young age. Then I am asked ‘Well, what part of Russia was he from?’ I answer that he too is an American, and, again, that he was just an excellent teacher. It was one of my greatest pieces of good fortune to have met Rick Borger, someone who in every sense of the word literally changed my life. We started together when I was fourteen years old, and it was a long journey, covering four years at The Hill. There were many moments when I struggled. I can remember weeks, initially just sitting, repeating vowel and consonant sounds, with Mr. Borger's lead, thinking to myself, 'When is this guy ever going to get around to actual words?' Well, we got on to words and much more. He gave me the foundation for my later degree in Russian language and Literature and he opened the doors of Foreign Service for me. More importantly, he gave me an appreciation for the great Russian language and its people which has become a central focus of my professional and personal life."

I first met her in a library in Pembroke Pines in 1996 and later that same year at the CIA’s building at 1500 Westbranch Drive [McLean, VA]. It seems that she has continued her career since being declared persona non grata by Russia for her espionage activities there. Phil Raveling retired in 2014 after 25 years in the Central Intelligence Agency’s National Clandestine Service. He served six overseas assignments at US Embassies and CIA posts in Europe, the Middle East, and South Asia, as well as in domestic assignments in the US. From 2009–2011, Phil led the US Intelligence Community’s inter-agency Financial Intelligence Organization that was the center of excellence in the US Government for financial and counter-threat finance intelligence operations. He has broad experience in all phases of intelligence leadership, operations, collection, and reporting, with special concentration on key transnational issues such as counterterrorism, war zones, counter-threat finance, counterintelligence, and European and Middle Eastern regional issues.

Phil served over two years – in 2004 and again in 2011- in Afghanistan as the senior intelligence officer in in RC-South, leading all phases of intelligence operations in a high risk war zone environment. He executed critical intelligence collection operations against high value terrorist and insurgent networks in Afghanistan and Pakistan. In 2009, he served in Iraq, managing CIA operations in Al Anbar province. From 2012-2013, he also directed DoD intelligence collection operations across the Middle East and CENTCOM AOR, leading hundreds of officers in complex counterterrorist operations requiring extensive inter-agency coordination.

Phil Raveling holds a Master's degree from American University and an Undergraduate degree from Texas Christian University. He speaks fluent French, Italian, and Turkish.

Mentions in Pages 23, 120 and 239 attached as screenshots with red markings by self for attention.

Only a few days after my temporary office opened, another job hunter paid a visit. He happened to be a former secret policeman, and was offering his services to help our security. Somewhat taken aback, I looked over the papers he had brought to authenticate his qualifications. He had graduated from the school of the Ministry of Interior, and had received an "A" in, among other things, "agent activities." I complimented him on his background and used a convenient excuse to extricate myself: "Prague has to decide this" was a response that any Slovak could understand.

Our staff gradually multiplied, especially after we moved back into our building in July 1991. Beth Ritchie Poissant joined us that May as our USIA branch public affairs officer; Richard Polka came in August to set up consular operations, and Pat Lerner arrived in January 1992 to set up the first United States Agency for International Development (USAID) operation outside any nation's capital. USAID's prescience proved fortunate when the country split a year after her arrival. By that time, not unlike some other USAID operations, the USAID staff soon exceeded the rest of our Bratislava personnel combined. Late in my tenure, Pat became the first employee to benefit from that newfangled invention called "e-mail," but the rest of us had to lumber along in what seemed to be the Stone Age of communications. We were hamstrung by the lack of a permanent administrative officer—a shortcoming that was not addressed until a few weeks before my departure.

I originally went back to the Slovak government because I had received a number of inquiries from journalists as to whether we had obtained the promised report. It was embarrassing to have to state that we had not, but I did not want to leave the impression that we were somehow cooperating with Slovak authorities to cover up the facts.

Before this episode passed, I had to weather one other storm. Our vice consul, Richard Polka, had gone to Košice in eastern Slovakia with the very laudable program of interviewing visa applicants who would otherwise have had to travel to Bratislava, as well as to keep up our ties with eastern Slovak notables. Without my knowledge, he paid a visit to the opposition daily Slovenský Východ. While there, he had gone beyond his brief and made some remarks on the microphone issue which the newspaper then published as an interview. While our issued “press guidance” restricted us to remarking that the matter was being discussed in diplomatic channels and that we stood by the embassy’s earlier statements on the issue (especially that we had incontrovertible evidence proving that the microphones were live), he wound up discussing the issue with a paper which was Mečiar’s sworn enemy and would have loved nothing more than to “expose” the prime minister. Although the interview essentially said nothing new, it had the very negative effect of renewing media interest and speculation. I had

I have a feeling that they are no longer there. The area behind Lenin's tomb was shut for some time late '70s and early '80s and when I went to the tomb with some students in the mid-1980s after 10+ years absence, I discovered that behind the Mausoleum it had been turned from a Revolution 'experience' into a Great Patriotic War experience. I seem to remember looking Bill Haywood in the wall in vain.

B.S., Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Professor Czarnetzky is the Mitchell McNutt & Sams and Jessie D. Puckett, Jr. lecture in law. He is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (B.S., 1982, Chemistry) where he played football, and the University of Virginia (J.D., 1989), where he did not; he was, however, an Executive Editor of the Virginia Law Review, and editor of the Virginia Journal of Environmental Law. Prior to law school, Professor Czarnetzky was an officer in the United States Army where he was a chemical officer working as an intelligence analyst. After law school, he practiced bankruptcy and commercial law with Sidley & Austin in Chicago, and McGuire, Woods, Battle & Boothe in Richmond, Virginia.

Czarnetzky joined the University of Mississippi School of Law in 1994, and has taught courses in bankruptcy, corporate reorganization, secured transactions, civil procedure, business associations, international trade, and several undergraduate courses at the Sally McDonnell Barksdale Honors College, with which he helped establish a relationship with the law school. Professor Czarnetzky previously directed the law school's Cambridge Summer Session for eight years.

Professor Czarnetzky has been honored as outstanding professor three times by the student body (once shared with Professor Weems). Along with the director, Professor Bullard, Professor Czarnetzky is an adviser to the Business Law Institute, an innovative collaboration between students and faculty which aims to give students multiple opportunities to develop their skills in corporate, commercial, tax and business law. Professor Czarnetzky has served as adviser to several other student organizations, including co-founding (with Professor Rychlak) the St. Thomas More society.

Professor Czarnetzky serves as a legal adviser to the Holy See's Mission to the United Nations, along with Professor Rychlak. In that capacity, he has represented the Holy See in negotiations including the establishment of the International Criminal Court and several international treaties, including one on the rights of persons with disabilities.

Professor Czarnetzky's scholarly interests are bankruptcy, commercial and international law, the last growing out of his work with the Holy See. Professor Czarnetzky has published in several law journals, including Notre Dame Law Review, Fordham Law Review and Arizona State Law Journal. Professor Czarnetzky's scholarship also has explored the intersection of Catholic social theory and American corporate and commercial law.

Professor Czarnetzky and his wife, Sylvia Robertshaw Czarnetzky, reside in Cleveland, Mississippi.

"Folks on the staff tended to be a little down on him," the former classmate said. He was "kind of a pudgy guy. He was getting very middling grades on his written work. CIA OFFICER ALFREDA FRANCES BIKOWSKY

Source Sends –

South Garland (Texas) High School alumni have been keeping tabs on their classmates for reunion purposes: http://www.dfwretroplex.com/SGHS_1983_master.htm.

Bikowsky's last known address was in Alexandria which I believe sold in 2012. You will see that she is referenced in the alumni list as living in that city, and as holding a second surname, Silverstein.

It appears that Bikowsky, who got her BA from UPenn, may have married a gentleman she met at Tufts University's Fletcher School for Law and Diplomacy in the late 80's. His name is David Silverstein.

Both are graduates of the Fletcher School. You will note that in a 1991 article on terrorism for "The Heritage Foundation", Silverstein references Bikowsky's unpublished Masters thesis: <http://www.heritage.org/research/reports/1991/08/bg847-an-american-strategy-against-terrorism>. Access to this unpublished thesis would require at least some greater degree of access.

Silverstein has gone on to be deeply involved in formulating foreign, defense, and national security policy. He is currently a director and media talking head with two neo-conservative "think tanks" on, mostly, Middle East matters – "ASMEA" and the "Foundation for Defense of Democracies". Should his relationship to Bikowsky be confirmed, its hard to imagine how his ideas have not trickled into Bikowsky's mind, and consequently, the CIA's business practices.

CIA OFFICER STEPHEN JOHN NICGORSKI

Posted on November 9, 2013 by Cryptocomb

The mysterious figure captured in several White House photos during and after the OBL hit, is CIA Officer Stephen John Nicgorski.

More information available at Cryptome.

Stephen John Nicgorski, CIA OBL Spy, Drone Tout

Thanks to diligent research and publication by Cryptocomb last evening it was possible to locate information about "CIA John," a previously unnamed CIA officer who tracked Osama bin Laden and reportedly is also the principal advocate of CIA drone killing.

Name: Stephen John Nicgorski

<http://www.manta.com/c/mr4mmxm/stephen-j-nicgorski-mr-mrs>

Possible address: 1685 Winterwood Court, Herndon VA

Possible phone: (703) 467-9597

After Cryptome published unidentified photos in 2011 of Nicgorski at the White House, he was identified but not named by the New York Observer which published photos of Nicgorski as a basketball player along with details about his father:

<http://cryptome.org/0004/cia-john/cia-john.htm>

From Google Books:

STEVE NICGORSKI, 1985-88

Steve Nicgorski was a walk-on from South Bend St. Joe's High School. His father taught Russian Literature at Notre Dame and Steve grew up just a few blocks from my house. He had a 3.5 GPA and now works for the CIA.

We saw him play in the Bookstore Basketball Tournament in the spring of 1985 and invited him to try out as a walk-on for the 1985-86 season. He was a practice player, but he became one of the most popular practice players we ever had because of his free throw shooting style. He was an aggressive player when he got in the game and had a knack for drawing fouls. His first year he played just 10 minutes but took six free throws. He missed them all.

While we were scouting Kansas during the 1986-87 season we noticed Henry Carr of Wichita State, who was a good free throw shooter. He had this routine where he held the ball up in the air with his right palm facing the basket. It looked like he was offering up the ball before he shot it.

I stopped Nicgorski before practice one day and showed him the tape. "You are going to shoot free throws this way." He practiced it and liked it. The first time he did it in a game, the students went crazy. Before long they copied his entire routine, holding their right arm straight out like they also had the ball in their hands.

He used that routine his junior and senior years. He still wasn't that successful—he made just seven of 16 from the line over his last two years. He missed his last five, including a couple on Senior Night. After the game I let the seniors speak to the crowd. He said a few words, and then said, "I am going to make one more free throw before I leave Notre Dame." With the crowd standing and cheering,

Son of Robert Edward OSTH who died in 2008.

Mother is Elizabeth (HOLMES) OSTH.

Older sister is Jaquelin (OSTH) NUILA.

Brother is Robert Powers OSTH.

<http://www.legacy.com/obituaries/sptimes/obituary.aspx?n=Robert-Osth&pid=118224798>

OSTH appears to have grown up in Berryville, Virginia, born into a family with hawkish views against the perceived enemies of his country (<http://www.unz.org/Pub/AmMercury-1959dec-00136>). His mother (aka release: https://www.google.ca/url?sa=t&rct=j&q=&esrc=s&source=web&cd=11&cad=rja&ved=0CCgQFjAAOAO&url=http%3A%2F%2Farchive.org%2Fstream%2Ffoia_JBS-Richmond-1%2FJBS-Richmond-1_djvu.txt&ei=vuSWUqG3JpLboAT9xoDoDQ&usq=AFQjCNGzB_VBT83TweC11VoJl4tzWekWnw , edited an anti-communist publication called “Minute Women USA” during the 50’s-60’s era of McCarthyism (http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Minute_Women_of_the_U.S.A.) and also broadcasted a similarly themed radio program (<http://news.google.com/newspapers?nid=1314&dat=19670610&id=A-xXAAAIBAJ&sjid=4ugDAAAIBAJ&pg=7436,3769144>).

Betsy OSTH), according to a FOIA

Considering his father’s military background and his mothers apparent political activity, it is not surprising OSTH entered the military after graduating from Hampden-Sydney College in 1973.

Curious as to what he was exporting from Colombia in the mid-2000s:

An archived clip from OSTH’s alma-matter newsletter shows us the composition of his family after marriage:

Wife – Isabel Durand OSTH: <https://www.facebook.com/isabel.osth>

Son – Victor OSTH: <https://www.facebook.com/victor.holmes.35>

Daughter – Laura OSTH: Unknown

It’s likely that his job led to the marriage’s dissolution as can be read about in a letter penned by Isabel OSTH:

Photo of Isabel is here: <http://dougdillon.com/2011/12/24/lifes-questions-are-we-dreaming-our-existence/>

In 2009, OSTH’s anti-communist mother shared some wealth and granted her property to her son: <http://www.pcpao.org/eispub/EISPubImageServlet?book=16587&page=823>. The property adjoins one owned by his sister Jaquelin (OSTH) NUILA and her husband Jorge Arturo

NUILA: http://www.pcpao.org/query_address.php?Number=1092&PreDirection=any&StreetName=Seville&Type=DR&PostDirection=any&unit=&city=PALM+HARBOR&zip=any&nR=25&submitButtonName=Submit

Jorge NUILA is originally from Guatemala and appears to have been with Jaquelin since the early 70’s:

Jaquelin OSTH NUILA:

Jaquelin also appears to have been in the military and uses aliases on Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/jaquie.newlin>

Second Facebook page is: <https://www.facebook.com/jag.nuila>

Her children have followed the family tradition and also entered the Armed Forces. Son Sean is a Lt. Cmdr. in Norfolk, VA and is in a relationship with a Colombian woman.

Brother Robert Powers OSTH is no longer who he once was. Up until the late 70’s, I am unsure of what he was up to. But in 1979, he got involved in making movies and acted in a cult horror movie called “Dont Go In the House” (http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Don't_Go_in_the_House). At the time, he was billed as Robert OSTH but as you can see in this recent event, he now refers to himself as Robert CARNEGIE, having taken the surname of his wife Maxine. (<http://www.brownpapertickets.com/event/274883>)

So who is Robert Carnegie?

Only a famous Hollywood acting coach and likely great asset to the CIA’s school of spooks:

<http://playhousewest.net/>

How can we be sure this is truly Craig Osth’s brother? Because he’s Facebook

(<http://www.facebook.com/bobcarnegieplayhousewest>) friends with Craig’s son Victor:

I wonder what Mama Betsy thinks of this considering Hollywood’s ties to the big red menace?

James Robert Kirkland was the alias that CIA Officer Robert Davenport used during the “Milan Job”. He is currently wanted for kidnapping by the Italian authorities and is also a suspect in a string of other kidnappings in Europe. Before joining the CIA Robert Davenport was an FBI agent for 25 years. Using information provided by the Italian authorities, Cryptocomb was able to confirm that Robert Davenport was a member of a CIA “Rendition Team”. He currently resides in Kentucky.

Interestingly, their patrons picked up on his law enforcement-induced harder personality:

<http://www.topix.com/forum/city/bowling-green-ky/TRMV7TA7QEUHIL857>

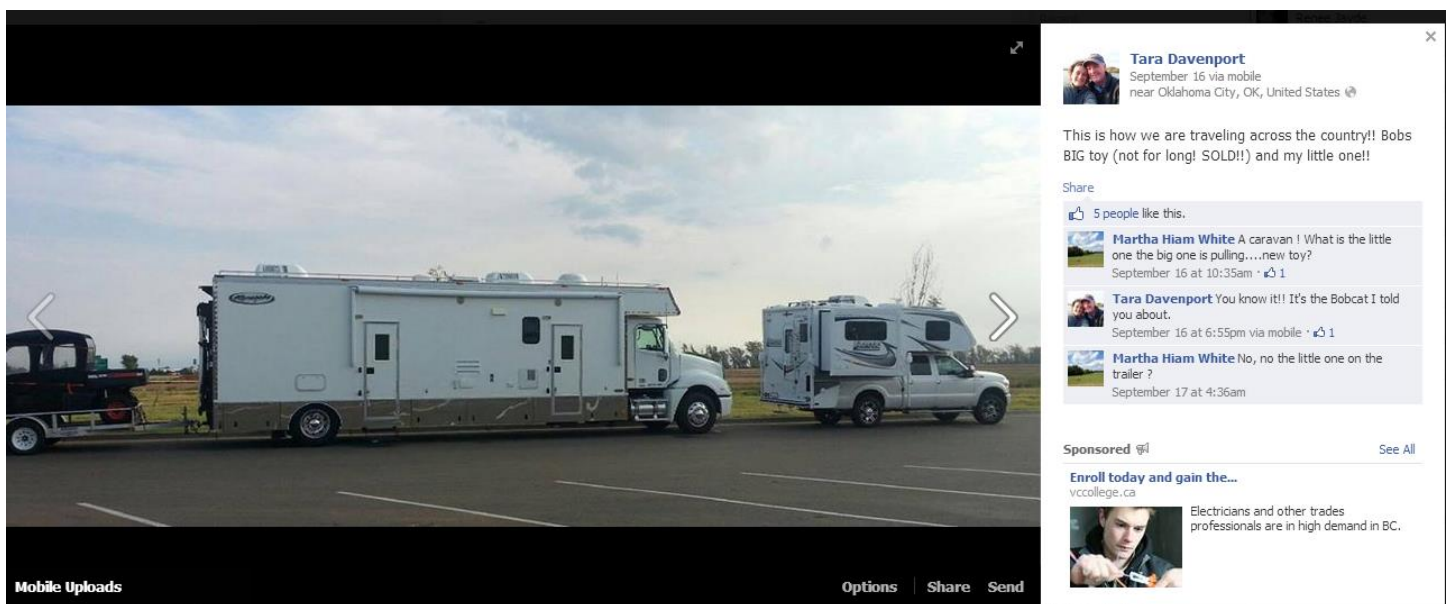

Yellowpages lists his mailing address as follows: Po Box 50333, Bowling Green, KY 42102

This address relates to a company called “Red Arrow Transport”. Not sure if it’s defunct now. The company carried the phone number of 270-392-4788 (<http://www.merchantcircle.com/business/Red.Arrow.Transport.270-392-4788/map>)

This number is still in use and was recently referenced in a for sale ad for a Freighliner RV. Sellers name was “Bob”.

(<http://www.racingjunk.com/Toterhomes/181913296/2004-Renegade-FREIGHTLINER-W-Garage.html>)

The picture of the for-sale Freighliner (sic) appears to match the one posted on Tara Davenport’s Facebook page which references it’s recent sale. There are other pictures of it on her page.

Open source queries of the number also show postings referencing the number by a “Bob Davenport”.

Graham-Staton trade vows in Lodi ceremony

Jill Suzanne Graham and Teric William Staton recently married in a ceremony held at the Lodi home of the bride's parents.

The bride, daughter of Jean and Dr. Craig Graham of Lodi, graduated from Lodi High School and the University of California, San Francisco, where she earned a bachelor's degree in dental hygiene. She is currently employed as a dental hygienist.

The groom, son of Milton and Cynthia Staton of Lodi, graduated with a bachelor's degree from Santa Clara University and a master's degree from University of Southern California. He is a program manager for the Central Intelligence Agency.

The bride wore a brocade, halter style gown adorned with beading and lace appliques. The slim skirt featured a peplum and a back tail. With delicate white flowers in her hair, the bride carried a bouquet of intermingled genesta, freesias and white roses.

Shelly Donald, sister of the groom, served as maid of honor, while Dr. Jeffrey Graham, brother of the bride, filled the role of best man.

Susan Maley acted as hostess.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The newlyweds plan to settle in Reston, Va.

CIA OFFICER THOMAS DONAHUE FLETCHER

Posted on November 9, 2013 by Cryptocomb

Source Sends – The CIA officer listed as “Officer A” in the John Kiriakou complaint has been revealed to be Thomas Donahue Fletcher. Born in 1953, Fletcher is currently a resident of Vienna, VA.

Further – Source states journalists have known identity of this person prior to August 2008, when Kiriakou allegedly confirmed the identity in an email to Matthew Cole, formerly of ABC News.

Source Sends – Thomas Donahue Fletcher was the chief of the Headquarters Based Rendition Group and was personally responsible for the rendition of Abu Zubaydah (as well as other high-value detainees) to the CIA black site in Thailand and witnessed and played a role in Zubaydah’s torture.

“Officer B” is former CIA officer Deuce Martinez.
