Basically nothing is off limits and he is just asking questions and 'following the money'. He makes guesses as to what he thinks the organ harvesting might be for, who it's for, why, etc. The main thing seems to be that there is a fuck ton of money to be made off of cadavers / harvested organs. An individual body being worth up to a million dollars.

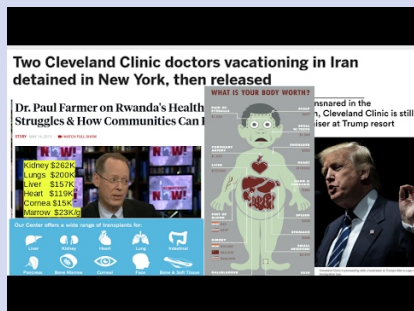

Another interesting aspect of this investigation is the fact that the people following it constantly post comments and tips and point him towards things he wouldn't have been aware of otherwise. He then posts follow up videos integrating the findings of others into what he's investigating. Hence "open source investigation".

At some point a few weeks ago 53 days worth of videos just randomly disappeared from his channel. He didn't make a big deal out of it and just kept going, but generally it was a massive indication that he's on the right track.

Out of all of the investigations I've ever seen that delve this deep into the dark underbelly of humanity, noone has ever come off as grounded and sensible. It's very strange. You typically associate these types of ideas with kooky Alex Jones types, however, this is completely different. Definitely worth viewing if you've been following the child trafficking revelations and generally are curious about what's happening in the world.

And to address your question more specifically, there's a good video that delves into this (embedded).

Perhaps there are rejuvenation properties, but he likens it more along the lines replacing car parts. Heart going out due to decades of negligence and abuse? Just swap it out for a new one. Hearts, lungs, eyes, kidneys, bone marrow, etc. It's all being harvested and sold and used for God knows what.

He also goes into the details and logistics of the operation and all of the different compartmentalized aspects at play that enable such an industry to flourish beneath the surface of our historical narrative.

Honestly, we need a thread dedicated to hardcore discussion and analysis of what's being uncovered here. Much more so than all of this SJW/lefty bashing bullshit that seems to be prevalent and dominating the discussion here. This is an ongoing investigation into the real global corruption that plagues the planet, and noone here cares because it's not appealing to their inner need to mock the silly actions of the people they oppose.

Understand your region well (geography, topography, population distribution, water table, flora, fauna), don't rely on gps or the internet, try to memorize these things. Practice until you can function when you're tired, hungry, thirsty, scared.

Watch people's hands, keep your distance, learn how to fall without hurting yourself, get into a habit of stepping out of your comfort zone so you can adapt your thinking to fluid and stressful situations.

Chances are if anything happens you will be stuck within a 250 mile radius of where you are sitting right now, people will be far more dangerous than the elements or nature, unless you live in the middle of nowhere.

Group bonding creates weakness, you're not a pregnant woman, a small child or an old man. Unless all members share a unified objective which they are willing to sacrifice for, internal dynamics will tear apart even a family and reduce efficiency and chances for survival.

Going any further is going to elevate both of us from blue to red on their list. Obviously own a gun and know how to use it in different conditions and environments.

no point becoming a larper about it, just incorporate healthy physical activities and mindfulness around other people and your surroundings daily. This doesn't mean buying a bunch of survival shit; unless of course you can afford a refrigerated bunker 3km under a mountain, then ignore everything i wrote and just go for that.

Anonymous 02/10/17 (Fri) 05:10:33 ID: b8954b No.9220056

A concise synopsis of what's being uncovered by this investigation:

>In the DynCorp Harvest series, George incrementally describes a luxury medical tourism resort in Northern Haiti, funded by USAID and built by the Clinton Foundation, whose revenue-earning underpinnings are purported to be a) an illegal organ harvesting market, b) human sex trafficking Dyncorp-Slim ratline and c) microlending loansharking debt slavery by DynCorp—the CIA's privatized, covert-services contractor.

>The organs are proposed to be either transplanted in Haiti into rich elites skipping the lines with help from organ brokers he believes the Podestas and Braverman—the doctor to be, or shipped to locations throughout the US to various aristocratic outlets; while women are forced into cellphone-based debt slavery and prostitution; and children are sex-trafficked to Colombia or stowed aboard a medical ship bound for a port in Norfolk Va to be (mkultra-best-use/sex/assassin/politician) trafficked in DC (and abroad). Furthermore, and much like they were in Vietnam, the bodies would then be zipped in DynCorp bodybags, shipped abroad with organs removed and replaced with illegal drugs.

>These activities, in addition to blackmailing police forces, politicians, and industry influencers into compliance and loyal servitude—the so-called Brownstone Operations—are the "natural and necessary" functions of the CIA, because—the company erroneously believes—these activities are needed to fund these selfsame covert operations! Putting it more simply, "We need to commit crimes so we can continue to commit crimes."

>There. Now you understand the CIA.

fellow anons on the trail, what we need right now are skilled writers. we need people to spend some time with this vast amount of information and piece it all together into coherent and concise synopses so that the normies can easily digest it. right now there is so much solid & relevant information being dug up, but the problem is that it's in a format that is very difficult to penetrate for those without the infinitely curious investigative mind. if anyone here reading this truly cares and happens to have a way with words, please, i implore you, spend some time writing an overview of the investigation and where it has led. i will add it to the archive ,(which is already spreading far and wide), and ensure that it is both read and preserved.
